[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, July 3, 1867.

SENATE.

The Senate met at noon.

CONSTITUTIONAL QUESTION.

Mr. SUMNER asked leave to enter a protest against the resolution calling Congress together, asserting that so far as it provided for adjournment without day, the absence of a quorum, it was unconstitutional. He saw there was a quorum present, but did not wish the resolution to be taken as a precedent for the future.

THE ROLL CALLED.

The roll was called and thirty-four Senators answered to their names.

The Secretary was instructed to inform the House of Representatives that a quorum of Senators was present.

MESSAGES IN THE HOUSE.

At 12:25 the Clerk of the House informed the Senate that a quorum of the House was present.

PETITIONS OFFERED.

Mr. SUMNER offered two petitions.

Mr. FESSENDEN objected to the introduction or reference of any business not strictly connected with the session, at which it was well known Congress had met. After debate, the petitions were ordered to lie on the table for the present.

ADJOURNMENT—OVERWHELMING BILL.

Mr. WILSON offered a bill as an addition to the several reconstruction acts.

It consists of two sections. The first vacates all civil offices in the Southern States within three days, and authorizes the Commanding General to retain the present incumbents, or make new appointments, or order an election. The second authorizes the Boards of Registration to refuse to register any persons against whom they have just grounds to believe are seeking to evade the requirements of the act, and if persons registered twenty days persons registered and afterwards proved disqualified.

The bill was ordered to be printed and die on the table.

UNIVERSAL SUFFRAGE.

Mr. SUMNER offered a bill for universal suffrage, the same, with slight amendments, as offered in the House session.

MORE RECONSTRUCTION.

Messrs. DRAKE and EDMUNDS offered bills on reconstruction, which were ordered upon the table.

MEXICAN AFFAIRS.

Mr. CHANDLER offered a resolution asking the President for the correspondence between the State Department and our Minister to Mexico.

Mr. FESSENDEN objecting, the resolution went over.

Mr. SUMNER offered a resolution asking for all the correspondence on file in the State Department relating to the recent events in Mexico. It also went over.

TO WAIT ON THE PRESIDENT.

A Committee was appointed to wait on the President, and inform him the Senate was in readiness for the transaction of business.

Without waiting for a report from the Committee, the Senate adjourned until Friday.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

CALLED TO ORDER.

The SPEAKER, at noon, called the House to order.

The roll of members was called. During the progress a message was received from the Senate announcing it had a quorum.

The message was also went over.

QUORUM PRESENT.

The SPEAKER stated that one hundred and twenty members were present, and directed the Clerk to notify the Senate a quorum of the House was in session.

Rev. BOYNTON, Chaplain, offered prayer

NEW MEMBER.

The SPEAKER stated the first business in order was the administration of the oath of office to members elect not sworn.

A PROTEST—CHARGE OF DISLOYALTY.

Mr. SCHENCK, rising to a question of privilege, objected to the oath being administered to J. D. YOUNG, and presented the protest of SAMUEL MALLORY, formerly a member of the House, taking the ground generally of the disloyalty of Mr. YOUNG.

The protest, he said, was accompanied by another protest from citizens of the Fourth Congressional District of Kentucky, sustained by affidavits, covering the facts alleged, and asked that the papers be referred to the Committee on Elections.

THE KENTUCKY ELECTIONS.

Mr. LOGAN offered the following as an amendment:

WHEREAS, There is good reason to believe that in the election recently held in the state of Kentucky for members of the Fortieth Congress, the legal and loyal voters in the several districts of said State have been overawed and prevented from an expression of their will and choice at the polls, by those who were sympathized with or actually participated in the late rebellion, and such elections carried by the votes of such disloyal and disarmed rebels;

AND WHEREAS, It is alleged that several of the Representatives from the State of Kentucky are disloyal; therefore

Resolved, That the credentials of all the members elect from the State of Kentucky shall be referred, prior to the Committees on Elections, to said State, with instructions to ascertain as early a day as practicable, and that pending the report of said Committee none of said members shall be allowed to take the oath of office, or be admitted to the seats at issue.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

Here a message was received from the Senate, announcing the appointment of a committee on the part of that body to join a like Committee of the House to wait upon the President.

On motion of Mr. FARNSWORTH, such Committee was ordered on the part of the House, and Messrs. Farnsworth, Spalding and Wood appointed.

THE KENTUCKY QUESTION RESUMED.

At Mr. BROOKS' request, Mr. SCHENCK stated the affidavits were exparte.

OBJECTION TO THE OATH OF ORDER.

Mr. ELDRIDGE, rising to a question of order, reminded the Speaker that when he [Mr. Eldridge] undertook to make the same point against Mr. Blake, of Tennessee, at the close of the Thirty-ninth Congress, the Speaker ruled that the proceedings could not be interrupted for any such purpose. He insisted on the same ruling now.

The SPEAKER corrected Mr. ELDRIDGE, and said on that occasion he had ruled in accordance with the uniform usage, that it was for the House to determine what action should be taken when a member presented himself, and when there was no objection made to his taking the oath. The Chair had never ruled differently. If the gentleman from Wisconsin had offered a resolution that Mr. STOKES should not be sworn in, he would certainly have been in order, and it would have been for the House to determine the question.

Mr. ELDRIDGE remarked that he had not been on that occasion to offer a resolution, but to make a question of order, and the Chair had ruled that the proceedings could not be interrupted.

The SPEAKER said he had a distinct recollection that the ruling had always been the same. If the House saw fit it could refer the credentials of the Kentucky to the Committee on Elections previous to his being sworn, or after his being sworn.

The SPEAKER subsequently had read extracts from the Congressional Globe to show that his ruling on the occasion referred to was the same as he presently ruling.

Mr. BENJAMIN gave to the House some statements in reference to the public character of Mr. YOUNG, from the Third Congressional District of Kentucky, and said that during the war he had allied himself with those who were inimical to their disloyalty to the government, voting, speaking, and acting in support of all the designs of the rebels.

SPEECH OF MR. LOGAN.

Mr. LOGAN addressed the House in support of his amendment. He had offered it, not for the purpose of striking at any Kentucky member, but for the purpose of establishing a precedent in the House. He desired to preserve the House from contamination. The Constitution of the State of Kentucky, and they were a legion, had representatives in the rebel Congress at Richmond. After the suppression of the rebellion, the Kentucky rebels returned to that State, and the law which disfranchised them was repealed. Then they undertook to transfer their representation from the halls in Richmond, contaminated by treason, to the halls of this Congress, which ought to be sanctified by loyalty. It was a historical fact that at the late election in Kentucky a man was elected Governor who had been a traitor and rebel. [A member near Mr. Logan whispered a correction, and Mr. Logan corrected himself.] He said he was a little too fast. At all events those members were elected on a ticket with a man who was, in the eyes of the world, a condemned traitor. If Kentucky could send members under such circumstances to the House, and if no member protested against their being sworn in, why should not South Carolina do the same, under the ruling and advice of the head of the Government. He was not willing to sit here and allow any man to take the oath when he knew that the member's constituents were disloyal and would send no other kind of man to Congress, if they could avoid it. This was his theory of getting at the question. Kentucky had shown herself disloyal during and since the rebellion. He therefore insisted that those men sent here from Kentucky must go before the Committee on Elections and let their loyalty be tested. If they were loyal, they would come out unscathed. If they were disloyal, they had an immense amount of impudence in presenting themselves. Whenever a delegation came from a State whose loyalty was questionable, he was in favor of having the whole delegation examined, so as to keep out those loyal, and sending back such as were disloyal.

Mr. BROOKS made the point of order that Mr. LOGAN'S amendment was not in order.

The SPEAKER overruled the point.

Mr. BROOKS opposed the resolution. He said the gentleman from Illinois had proclaimed principles in violation of the existing laws and of the Constitution. Kentucky had ever been loyal to the Union, and had been represented here during all the war by members of the various parties. It is only now, when the senate is Republican, one party, that the amendment is made to disfranchise her. This is revolution and there is a feeling among the people of the North, which will not submit to such revolution. No fighting will be done in the tented field. No transfer of the contest from the ballot-box to the bayonet. But here on the floor of the House, the democracy of the north will reappear and join with the democracy of the south and of the west, and will be heard when this Congress shall be no longer a rump parliament. Unless it is made so by such party as the gentleman from Illinois. If it were to accept the charges of disloyalty made by that gentleman from various parts of the Union, as an old time Whig, in 1850, and would be ready to charge on the gentleman from Illinois, (Mr. Logan,) then a democrat. That time was when utter disloyal to the government of the country.

Mr. LOGAN made a motion to interrupt Mr. BROOKS, but Mr. Brooks refused to let him make no charge of disloyalty against the gentleman, but take simply reports that are made. That may be adopted reports as the voice of the people of Kentucky.

Mr. LOGAN—I understand the gentleman's remarks, as applied to myself, as personal.

Mr. BROOKS—I was only illustrating and arguing to show that those charges against that side of house, on the ground, ought not to be accepted in good faith by any member, or influence this matter in a contested election. Kentucky furnished to the Union army 88,000 troops, and one of the delegates now sought to be excluded (Mr. Adams) was a Major in the Federal army.

Mr. LOGAN asked Mr. BROOKS how many of the Kentucky troops were colored.

Mr. BROOKS thought Mr. Logan much better informed on that subject than himself.

Mr. LOGAN inquired how many troops Kentucky furnished the rebel army?

Mr BROOKS said he had not the statistics of the rebel army.

Mr. LOGAN informed him Kentucky had furnished 40,000 men to the rebel army, and that of the number furnished to the Union army 20,000 were colored men.

Mr. BROOKS remarked that it had been said to constituents in this house that when Illinois had joined the rebel army, and if that was a good reason for expelling members from Kentucky, it should also be good reason for excluding members from Illinois and from Missouri.

Mr. INGERSOLL took exception to the statement that a considerable portion of the people of Illinois had gone into the rebellion.

Mr. BROOKS had simply stated it was so charged.

Mr. INGERSOLL thought it was time the charge should be denied.

Mr. BROOKS thought so too.

Mr. INGERSOLL hoped the gentleman from New York would not stultify his patriotic a State.

Mr. BROOKS only repeated to show that such reports were the reason for the unhappy rivalry Illinois and Kentucky.

Mr. INGERSOLL remarked that it was notorious that Kentucky had furnished a great many troops to the rebel army, and that but a few days in Illinois was such a sympathy come from the south, had joined the rebels, while two hundred and fifty thousand men from Illinois had shouldered their muskets and crushed the rebellion, whose supporters asked admission here to-day.

Mr. BROOKS disclaimed having anything to say against Illinois, and went on to argue against the proposed amendment.

Mr. INGERSOLL argued in support of the motion, which was for simple reference to the committee on Elections, that in the case of each member be examined. He admitted, with the gentleman from New York, that we were in the midst of revolution, and the American revolution had done great things for humanity, and this was a revolution in favor of liberty, in favor of justice, in favor of the universal rights of the many, and he would say, let the revolution go on until these grand principles are practically established as the basis of the American Republic.

Mr. SCHENCK said the gentleman from New York and others, though loyal men, should come here black with treason, and present to the House his certificate, he must be admitted on such presentation. If the gentleman had proved anything at all by his argument and illustrations, it would disable us here from refusing the oath to Jefferson Davis himself, if he were to come here with the certificate of election. You will not get the gentleman to say whether he would vote for or against permitting Davis to be sworn in under such circumstances. He will not say in his reference to John C. Breckinridge. He will not say it probably in reference to any traitor. I can understand that, because I know the gentleman's loyalty, but I say that does not distinguish between men who have sustained the Government in time of trial, when rebellion was rife, and men who have sustained the Government in time of peace, when rebellion was not present, and disloyalty was the way to destroy the country and overthrow the government and trample on the flag.

After a long discussion, Mr. LOGAN'S amendment, modified to except Mr. ADAMS, of the Seventh Congressional District of Kentucky, was adopted, and the cases of all other Kentucky delegates were referred to the Committee on Elections.

A PROTEST FROM CONNECTICUT.

Mr. SCHENCK presented a protest from citizens of the Fourth Congressional District of Connecticut, against the election of William H. Barnum, alleging bribery and corruption. Referred to Committee on Elections.

COMMITTEE ON FURTHER RECONSTRUCTION MEASURES.

Mr. STEVENS offered a resolution for the appointment of a Committee of nine to inquire what further legislation was necessary on reconstruction, &c. Adopted.

Adjourned till Friday.

Female Ingenuity—Secret Correspondence.

A young lady, newly married, being obliged to snow to her husband all the letters she wrote, sent the following to an intimate friend:

I can not be satisfied, my dearest friend, blest as I am in the possession of your love, unless I pour into your friendly bosom, which has ever been in unison with mine, the various sensations which await with such a loveliest emotion of heaven my almost burning heart. I tell you, my dear husband is the most amiable of men. I have now been married seven weeks, and have never found the least reason to repent the day that united us. My husband is in person and manners far from resembling a wife; it is in his nature to treat as a child, disagreeable and jealous monsters, who think by confining to secure a wife; it is in his nature to treat as a child, confidant, and not as a plaything or menial slave, the woman chosen to be his company. Neither party, therefore, can feel pleasant one day, but each yield to the other by turns. An ancient maiden aunt, near seventy, a cheerful, cheerful, venerable old lady, lives in the house with us—she is the delight of both young and old; she is every all the ground, generous and charitable to the poor. I am sure my husband loves nothing more than he does me, but he values me more than a glass, and his intoxication, (for so I must call the excess of his love,) often makes me thank for the unworthiness of his object, and wish I were more deserving of the man whose name I bear. To say all in one word, my dear, and to sum up the whole, my former gallant lover is now my indulgent husband, my fondness is returned, and I might have had a Prince, without the felicity I find in him. Adieu! may you be as blest, as I am able to wish that I could be more happy.

Police News.

Michael Dougherty made information before Alderman Donaldson against his father, Daniel Dougherty, charging Him with surcety of the peace. Michael alleges that the defendant abused his mother and threatened to kill her, and that he feared he would do so. A warrant was issued, Daniel arrested and committed to answer at court.

Catharine Drummle is charged with surety of the peace before Alderman McMasters, on oath of Catharine Barrett. The parties occupy, jointly, a house on the corner of Webster and Logan streets. The prosecutrix alleges that the defendant threatened to blow her brains out, and that she had sworn several times to kill her, for all of which Miss Quinnette is willing to make oath. Defendant was committed in default of the sum of money by my defeat of their favorite. Still, as I believe there is a desire on the part of the patrons of my friend to see this matter set finally at rest, and as I recognize the right of the public to command the services of the best men in my support, I beg to offer to row James Hamill or John McNeely (giving Mr. Hamill two to strengen) a three mile race in Pittsburgh harbor for any sum from one hundred dollars a side, play or pay, the race to come off in September. If this should not suit the views of Mr Hamill or McKee, they can look elsewhere for a customer. I had to invade Pittsburgh, almost alone, to win the championship, and those gentlemen must come to Portland if she would win it back.

Failing in these matches, I will row Harry Kelley, the English champion, the same race for a similar amount, and make a due allowance for expenses. I will also guarantee Mr. Kelley as handsome a reception as the ex champion. Mr. Hamill, received in England, and a much closer contest for his victory, should he win.

In addition to the foregoing I suggest that the challenge be answered by Messrs Hamill or McKee personally. With me, the oar is mightier than the pen, and I will positively decline any further unnecessary argument. I remain, gentlemen, with respect, yours truly, WALTER BROWN, Champion Oarsman of America.

Mercer County—Lecture by a Colored Man.

MESSRS. EDITORS GAZETTE: A lecture was delivered in Irishtown, Mercer county, Pa., on the evening of the 15th inst., by a Mr. M. Johnston, a colored man, who has been lecturing in different vicinities in this State and Ohio, for some time past. His subject on the occasion referred to, was "National Justice." In the outset he remarked that as his subject was a comprehensive one, embracing various themes of discourse, he would confine himself exclusively to that phase of it, which might be brought to bear upon the race which he represented.

The speaker then proceeded to show wherein we, as a nation, had been unjust in our dealings with the colored race, by referring to the violation of the declaration of our forefathers, that "all men were created free and equal." He then spoke of unjust and unwholesome laws, by the cherishing of an unholy hate of race, a godless prejudice, which they themselves had not all of the ballot. Upon this last point he dwelt at considerable length, bringing argument after argument to bear upon it, pro and forcible, in favor of impartial suffrage.

If space would permit, we would be glad to give a synopsis of the arguments he used in defending the rights of his people. Being reminded of the ignorance of the masses of the colored people, he made a quick and telling reply, by saying that he had yet to learn that an unedncated white man was more capable of voting intelligibly than an intelligent black man.

Yet the Constitution of our State, and he, pretending to be a statesman, judges between man and man, bids the most ignorant and depraved white who wallows the mire of our streets, a hearty welcome to the polls, while a beautiful and touching picture of our national prosperity, when justice and equal rights to all shall prevail throughout the land.

O haste the time when the last relic of injustice toward this long oppressed people shall be forever blotted out from our statute books. How long can we, as an enlightened people, remain deaf to the earnest entreaties of educated colored men?

Difficulty on a Street Car.

Last night between ten and eleven o'clock a man who had been taking his 4th of July a little in advance, and had about two drinks too much, got on the Penn street car at Canal street, and as the car was considerably crowded there was not room enough for him, so he stood on the platform. He attempted to crowd some one else off, when the conductor took the matter in hands and put him off. The man left the fellow struck a knife and cut at the conductor, but the blow was warded off by a gentleman on the platform, and the fellow shoved off.

A Lady Insulted.—Last night about ten o'clock a lady and gentleman were insulted in a most disgraceful manner on Fifth and Penn streets, and upon being remonstrated with by her, deliberately struck her with his fist in the face. A man near by seeing the occurrence gave chase to the ruffian, overtaking him at the corner of Liberty and Fifth streets, and thrashed him to only a moderate extent, when he left, from whence he in the way of a sound threshing. As no police were in the neighborhood, the fellow escaped bearing the marks of the punishment received.

Fire on Walnright's Island.—Mc Cul lough's saw mill on Walnright's Island, opposite Birmingham, in the Allegheny river, was totally destroyed by fire last night. The alarm was sounded about ten o'clock, from the Second Ward Engine House, on the corner of Penn and Morris streets, and the engines repaired to that point, but were unable to get over on account of the river intervening between them and the fire. We were unable to ascertain how the fire originated, the amount of the loss, or the amount of insurance.

Cutting Affray.—A serious cutting affray occurred last night about ten o'clock, at the head of Fifth street, in front of Alderman Lynch's office, they being Daniel and John Lowndes, cousins, met there and got into a difficulty. Daniel drew a knife and cut John across the face, inflicting a serious wound, and continued to cut at him until arrested by Alderman Lynch, who sent him to the lock up. John made information against him and he will have a hearing today.

Henry D. Overholt, of Westmoreland county, had his pocket picked of over a thousand dollars last night. Mr. Overholt has been East, and came into the city on the evening train, and was passing down Liberty street, and just in front of the Mansion House while passing through a crowd was relieved of his money. Look out for pick pockets at Union Park to-morrow.

UNION REPUBLICAN NOMINATION.

FOR JUDGE OF SUPREME COURT.

HON. H. W. WILLIAMS,

Of Allegheny County.

THE ISSUE AS MADE.

Each of the political parties in Pennsylvania has nominated its candidate for Supreme Judge and proclaimed the principles for the enforcement of which it seeks authority from the ballot-box.

In the selection of its candidate each party has done well, so that whichever may be chosen the people will be sure of an upright and capable magistrate. Mr. SHARSWOOD and Mr. WILLIAMS are alike men of unblemished characters, of more than ordinary literary culture, of ripe legal learning, and of ample experience in the administration of public justice. It happens, we believe, that they are both Ruling Elders in the Presbyterian Church, and honor the position by lives of unquestioned piety. What ever choice there is between them results from the different political principles they avow, and which must inevitably influence their conceptions of certain important questions and their expositions of the laws relating thereto. So far, therefore, as the candidates are concerned, all fair pretext is taken away for vituperative personalities, which unfortunately constitute the main portion of the stock in trade of many small politicians and not a few journalists.

It has pleased the Democrats to ignore all issues primarily relating to this Commonwealth. They have not chosen even to protest in advance against the extension of the right of suffrage to the black citizens; nor to insist on the enactment of a Free Railroad Law; nor to denounce Legislative Corruption; nor to demand the adoption of laws calculated to promote the welfare of any one or all industrial departments or classes; nor have they seen proper to advocate or oppose the calling of a Convention to revise the Constitution. On these points, and all others, relating to State policy, they have purposely refrained from taking sides. This may be imputed as different individuals shall judge to comport most with the facts as they perceive them, to indifference, to want of discernment, to moral cowardice, to a disposition to assail rather than be assailed, or to any other cause whatever.

On national questions the Democrats, in perfect consistency with their course for years past, have avowed decidedly reactionary doctrines. What they insist upon is, that after the deluge all things shall remain as they were before. How this is to be accomplished, they do not undertake to say, and it is reasonable to infer they do not know. If all the marvellous events which have made the last six years in this country forever memorable in the history of the world could be stricken out, it would be conceivable that matters could be made to stand as the Democrats desire. But many of those events belong to a class that in the very nature of things permanently influence the destinies of peoples. Antietam, Gettysburg, the Wilderness, the Surrender of Lee, the Proclamation of Emancipation, and the Amendment to the Federal Constitution, are events that can no more be obliterated than those vast upheavals of the continent which formed the Alleghenies and the Rocky Mountains.

Nor will it escape observation that while the Democratic resolutions condemn, either directly or by implication, all that was done to frustrate the rebellion and save the Union, and all that is being done to prevent a renewal of the deadly assault upon the life of the nation, not a word is said against any of the high-handed measures which the rebels resorted to in the hope of accomplishing their illegal design. If the defenders of the Union had been confined within the limits these resolutions set up, the rebellion would have been successful. We have no respect for that professed reverence for the Constitution which forbids its genuine friends to defend it, but leaves its assailants at perfect liberty to wield the most infernal weapons for its destruction. If a man, at night, on the way from his place of business in this city to his dwelling in the suburbs, should be assailed by ruffians, intent on robbing him, and, if need be, on taking his life, he would naturally resort to all the means in his power to protect his person and property. He would not be particular what power he exerted, or how much of it. If some persons, nominally spectators, should remonstrate with him against using force and threaten him with a prosecution for assault and battery, he would be apt to judge they were accomplices of the ruffians, and he would not be amiss. This is precisely the attitude maintained by the Democrats during the war and ever since, even in the resolutions of their recent Convention. Assault and battery on the Constitution, with intent to kill, by the rebels, they have never condemned, and do not condemn now. All their reproaches are for the vigorous means by which the rebels were beaten and the Union preserved. They would not indict and punish the rebels for making war upon the government, but they would prosecute for assault and battery every patriot, whether in the field or elsewhere, who helped to whip the rebels into obedience.

Upon this platform the Democrats have deliberately planted themselves. We are not sorry. The platform is suited to them, and they to it. In no other form of words could they have more plainly declared to intelligent readers that their sympathies and purposes are with the rebels. The people of Pennsylvania have, for several years in succession, rendered verdicts upon other aspects of this same case. We have no fear they will next October reverse their own findings.

The resolutions of the Republicans, on the other hand, cover very nearly all the points that they could appropriately touch upon, and whether relating to local or national affairs, we should, indeed, have been better pleased had the Convention declared in favor of a State Constitutional Convention, so as to reach some evils for which there seems to be no other adequate remedy; but, perhaps, considering for how short a space that measure has been under discussion, it was unreasonable to hope to carry it at once. Nor are we without expectation that the next Legislature, in obedience to a development of popular opinion, will feel constrained to order it. Whatever the majority shall unmistakably demand, the Legislature will not dare long refuse.

For some years past increasing interest has been felt in favor of the enactment of a General Railroad Law. This feeling had become so palpable and controlling that last year the Republican and Democratic candidates for Governor emulated each other in avowing they were decidedly for such an enactment. This year the Republican Convention put itself squarely on the right side. If there shall, next winter, be Republican majorities in each of the two Houses, as we doubt not there will, this action of the Convention will honorably bind the Republican Legislative Caucus to make a party question of the General Railroad Bill. The pledge has now been publicly given, and will have to be publicly redeemed. We do not doubt the sincerity of the Convention in giving the pledge, and believe it will be fairly lived up to.

On national questions the resolutions are altogether satisfactory, and for what is omitted as well as for what is affirmed. They are not ladened with wrath against the southern people; they embody no demand for fresh political disabilities or confiscations of properties; they set forth no agrarian doctrines as to the division of goods or the enforcement of social equality, as between whites or blacks, or both; nor do they seek to lay the consequences of the bad faith of the President on the inhabitants of the revolted States. So much negatively.

The resolutions plainly declare that the Reconstruction Acts ought to be enforced in the spirit in which they were enacted and are expressed, that the President shall not be allowed to substitute, through the Attorney General, his interpretation of those laws, for the laws themselves; and that the will of the nation, pronounced by its chosen representatives, as to the restoration of the Seceding States, shall not be defeated and set aside, but shall stand and be obeyed.

On the matter of domestic industry, in all its departments, the voice of the Convention is equally satisfactory. Nearly all the people of Pennsylvania are in the primary sense producers. They are not intermediaries. They produce, from the soil, mines, shops, factories, or what not. They add by labor to the aggregate wealth. Not that we entertain a low or disparaging estimate of the distributors of what is produced. The men who make and ply steamboats, who construct and work railroads, who dig canals and run floats thereon, who "go down to the sea in ships and do business on the great waters," who keep warehouses and stores, and deal in all manner of merchandise, including ingots, coin, notes, and drafts, are all producers as really as other classes of laborers. The distribution of commodities is as essential to industrial prosperity, as the production of raw materials, or the conversion of such materials into any commodity whatever. This function is made a distinct employment in accordance with that division of labor by which time is economised and gods cheapened to the consumers. The Convention renewedly pledged the party to follow its traditions in this particular, and to insist that all who labor shall be protected, not one at the expense of another, but each in harmony with the highest welfare of all. This fulfills the conception of a Commonwealth, which exists not for the benefit of a few individuals, or of special classes, but for the best good of all individuals and classes.

Upon the issues as thus presented the Republicans will enter upon the canvass, not only with high hopes, but with absolute confidence. What remains is for the County Conventions that have yet to assemble to perform their part satisfactorily, and particularly in the selection of local candidates. There will be trouble, and there ought to be, if men shall be put in nomination for the Legislature who fall below the grade of capacity which sensible people deem essential to the proper performance of the duties of the station, or who inspire distrust as to their probity. Let suitable men be nominated for these places, and the Republican party will promptly take up a march that shall result in a brilliant victory.

Railroads at Home and Abroad.

Mr. FORNEY in writing from London to the Press and Chronicle gives interesting information regarding railroads in England and makes comparison with our own great line—the Pennsylvania Central. He says:

"The English railroads rarely cross public roads save by bridge or tunnel, and when they must enter a great city like London they almost invariably run parallel with the tops of the houses. You see at once how this course insures the safety of person and of property. Indeed, nothing in these masses of men and mazes of railways so interests and surprises the American as the ever-present and conscientious vigilance for the protection of human life. No person is permitted to walk on the track, no idle crowds allowed to cluster at the stations, and in the few cases where the rail traverses a road on the same level, gates are watched by guards, who allow neither horse nor carriage to cross till the train is out of sight. The contrivances to give efficiency to these great works are new and numerous. On the London and Northwestern line, the locomotives take water while running at the rate of sixty miles an hour. An elongated iron box is laid in the middle of the track parallel with the rails, which is kept constantly filled with water from a neighboring fountain. As the train passes on swiftly, a scoop or shovel, fixed under the tender, taps the box and instantly fills the tank. The postoffice car is a model that might usefully be imitated in America, and the clearing house in London, where the delegates of the various companies meet every fortnight for the purpose of setting accounts and fixing rates, is quite an institution. It is something like the clearing house of our banks, and very complete. More than a thousand clerks are employed in this adjusting process. While overlooking the extensive organization of the London and Northwestern Railroad, a few days ago, in company with W. Prescott Smith, Esq., of Maryland, who has brought to the comparison between the railroads of England and America all the advantages of his long experience as the master of transportation of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, and who has been a most intelligent observer of English enterprise, I gathered some idea of the extent and resources of a corporation which, it is said to be the richest of its kind in the world. The capital stock of the London and Northwestern Railway is about one hundred and sixty-five millions of dollars, and its income in 1866 was as follows.

Passengers	£2,809,915
Freights, &c	3,502,150
	£6,312,065

or about thirty-one millions of dollars in gold.

How enormous this is, you may judge as you recollect the capital of the Pennsylvania Central Railway is about forty-five millions, and its income in 1866 was about sixteen millions of dollars. As you study these figures you realize how much more profitable an investment in the securities of our great work is than in the leading railroads of the world. With one third the capital the Pennsylvania Railroad earns more than one-half as much as the London and Northwestern. Additionally illustrative of the magnitude of this great company is the fact that their locomotive engines number thirteen hundred and forty-seven, their passenger carriages or cars two thousand five hundred, and their freight cars or wagons twenty-seven thousand. Their salaried men, conductors, ("guards,") clerks, agents, &c., amount to two thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, and their working employees to twenty-six thousand and twenty-one; a total of twenty-eight thousand eight hundred and eighty four. I question whether the force of the Pennsylvania Central, in all its departments, including the great Philadelphia and Erie branch, equals ten thousand officers and men. The general comparison is most valuable, however it may be regarded. While on this subject it is proper to state that the broad gauge is everywhere abandoned in Europe—all the roads now using it being altered to the narrow measure, most prevalent in the United States. It requires no gift of prophecy to anticipate the day when American securities, like American doctrines, will be honored and confided in by the wise men of the Old World.

—As some workmen out in Monroe county, Indiana, were digging a cellar last week, they struck a block of stone, which disappeared with a dull thump. Investigation disclosed a chamber with a six foot ceiling, and eighteen by twenty-five feet within the walls, which are of solid, neatly seamed stone work. Ranged in rows on ruddely constructed platforms were twelve skeletons, each with tomahawk and arrow-heads at their sides, ear-rings and bracelets of solid silver lying where they dropped, and piles of what appeared to have been furs, in the centre of the platform, each pile crumbling to dust as soon as exposed to the light. A number of tools made of copper, and hardened equal to the best cast-steel, were also unearthed.

—It appears that while the Legislatures of the New England States are moving in the matter of encouraging the re-stocking of their rivers and streams with shad and salmon, the Canadian papers are complaining of the overstocking of their streams with fish. The laws prohibiting netting in the streams have so increased the quantities of fish that the quality has deteriorated. That is a new complaint.

—The population of China is about four hundred millions; that of Japan forty millions more. These two countries contain nearly half the population of the globe.

The Business of the Union Pacific Railroad—A Double Track.

The whole subject of the Pacific Railroad is so new to the public that the daily developement of facts in connection with it excites surprise and astonishment. The Editor of Harper's Weekly, who has given this subject careful investigation, says: "When the Pacific Railroad is completed to San Francisco, a new era will be inaugurated. The road will then be the grand artery of the country. All other lines of railway will become, to a certain extent, its feeders. Along its entire route over the great Plains lateral branches will be constructed to tap it, which will pour into it their wayside contributions to an extent that can not to-day be approximately estimated. The road will not supercede the California ships in carrying bulky freight to New York, but the "way" traffic will undoubtedly be something marvelous. Already, with less than one third of its length complete, it is earning four times its operating expenses as officially stated. Such success is without precedent. When it reaches the already populous gold regions of Montana, Idaho and Nevada, the freight to and from those points alone is likely to be something almost fabulous. And population follows the road as it vexatends. A town or village marks each stage of its progress. Who can calculate the quantity of way freight that the road is destined to carry for these mushroom communities? Who, indeed, can estimate the passenger traffic alone? When hundreds of thousands of persons, with their faces toward the West, have tramped over the Plains at the risk of their scalps, how many peradventures will ride when they can make the journey with safety in a few days? Then comes the natural inquiry whether a single track, with its infrequent sidings and turnouts, will be able to accommodate more than the mere passenger traffic of the road, or whether travelers to the Pacific will be content to abide a time-schedule adapted to slow moving freight trains as well as passenger express cars. Certainly but a short time will elapse before the demands of trade will call for a second track, to be used exclusively as a freight road, over which an endless line of slowly moving vans shall continuously pass, leaving the other track for the use of impatient passengers only."

Strange as this necessity may seem at first glance, a moment's thought will show that it must come. The Union Pacific Railroad with its western connections, for a long time in the future, will be the only railroad connecting all the Atlantic and Pacific States, and of course must have a monopoly of the business. Suppose there were but one line of steam communication between any two of our great business centres like New York and Boston, or New York and Cincinnati and Chicago, how many daily or even hourly trains would be required for the traffic upon it, and how many double tracks would be necessary to accommodate the freight and travel? The railroad business of the country is still young, but as every year adds to population and production, so in every year railroad profits increase. Some timid capitalists have wished to be informed whether a road like the Union Pacific would earn money enough to pay the interest on its First Mortgage bonds? To us the question seems to be whether the Government should not make some limitation on the probable profits of the stockholders.

—The following paragraph, under the title of "A Revelation," appears in the Union Bretonne: "Now that the Czar has certainly taken his departure, we may mention a circumstance as yet unknown, and which the Emperor Napoleon, from motives of delicacy, was anxious to keep secret. One of the projectiles of the pistol fired in the Bois de Boulogne struck the Emperor of the French, but in place of penetrating, the lead only effected a severe contusion in the vicinity of the heart. His Majesty would not allow the Czar, while in France, to learn that the shot intended to strike him had more directly menaced another breast. That decision imposed on the press a reserve which was faithfully attended to, but which, now that the Czar is gone, is no longer necessary."

—A young German named Lehr, appeared before a magistrate in St. Louis, Missouri, on Sunday last, and bound himself to work three years for a certain Schmidt of that city, for which he was to receive in remuneration his board, clothes, and the hand of Sophia, the daughter of the aforesaid Schmidt. The contract was drawn and signed by both parties. The magistrate then proceeded to unite the couple in the bonds of matrimony; after which the party withdrew, all entirely satisfied.

—A good thing is told of the President in Raleigh. While responding in a feeling manner to the welcome given him, he used the expression, "Let us, my friends, repair the breeches"—and before he could add "made by the war," an old woman exclaimed, with perfect delight, "bless the dear old man, he has come home again to work at his old trade!"

PINUS CANADENSIS.

A tree which is abundant in Canada, Nova Scotia, and the more northern parts of the New England States, and is also found in the elevated and mountainous regions of the Middle States, and abounds in medicinal virtues. Dr. Swett, of Boston, has prepared a medicine from the sweet inside bark of the pine tree, called ROLAND'S WHITE PINE COMPOUND, which is one of rare value in all debilitated states of the kidneys. It acts like a charm in all diseases of mucous membranes, enabling them to regain their lost tone and energy. It will be found well adapted to all those diseases, where Buchu has been tried and failed. It is like wise well suited to chronic coughs, and an infallible specific for old and debilitated cases of asthma. Many persons who do not really need a bottle of this medicine, to try, afterwards come back and get a dozen, or half dozen, which effected radical cures of disease of the bladder and kidneys of years standing.

Diabetes, a disease that has been looked upon as among the incurables, is immediately relieved by its Notice the certificate of Asa Goodwin, published some time ago.

The United States Dispensatory, speaking of the pine, says: "It is prescribed in bronchial affections, and other diseases of the urinary passages; in piles and other inflammations or ulceration of the bowels, in chronic catarrhs, dysentery, and in various forms of rheumatism." It is exceedingly valuable in all gravelly affections, bloody urine, and where there is red and white sediment. It can be taken without interruption to one's usual avocations, and immediate relief, tendency to a healthy, healthy power of quickness and vigor. Price $1 per bottle, or six for $5.

CAPE MAY,

CAPE ISLAND.

Since the close of 1866 much enterprise has been displayed at this celebrated sea-shore resort. New and magnificent cottages have been erected; the Hotels have been remodeled; a new park, with a well made one mile drive, has been inaugurated; and in all the essentials of a popular summer resort, a spirit of improvement is largely manifested.

The geographical position of Cape Island is in itself a peculiar feature, when property understood. Situated in the extreme south of the portion of the state, and occupying a neck of land at the confluence of the Delaware Bay with the Atlantic ocean, it becomes the natural resort of the moist water, being favored by combined breezes from both.

The land furnishes a beautiful view of the Ocean, Delaware Bay, and picturesque back country, taking in cape Henlopen distancy at a distance of fifteen miles. The beach is acknowledged to be superior over either Long Branch or Atlantic coast, being of a smooth, compact sand of a gradual descent, so much so as to admit of a child can bathe with security.

Added to the above attractions is the fact that the effect of the Gulf Stream is to render the water comparatively warm—a pleasant to be considered in the case of those seeking health in ocean bathing.

The distance from Philadelphia to Cape Island is 81 miles by rail, and about the same distance by steamer down the Bay, and by either route the facilities for travel present a cheap and satisfactory character. The Island has Hotel and boarding-house accommodations for about ten thousand persons. The leading Hotels are the Columbia House, with Samuel S. Holton as proprietor; Congress Hall, with J. W. CAKE as proprietor, and United States, with WEST & MILLER as proprietors, all of which are conducted by gentlemen who have well established reputations as hotel men.

GENTLEMEN—We ship you, to-day, by railroad, a safe of your make, for a few repairs. The safe went through the disastrous fire that occurred here on the 6th of March last, burning our store and warehouse, and we are glad to inform you that the papers taken out of the safe after the fire were not harmed in the least. We did not suppose any safe, especially so small a size, could possibly stand such a fire, and when we discovered the papers all safe and sound, we were agreeably surprised. As we will give you an order for a large size safe when we get into our new store.

Truly yours,

PITTSBURGH, PA.

THE

Are now constructing a Railroad from OMAHA, NEBRASKA, westward towards the Pacific Ocean, making, with its connections, an unbroken line

ACROSS THE CONTINENT.

The Company now offer a limited amount of their

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS,

Having thirty years to run, and bearing annual interest, payable on the first day of January and July, in the City of New York, at the rate of

SIX PER CENT. IN GOLD,

At Ninety Cents on the Dollar.

This road was completed from Omaha 305 miles west on the 1st of January, 1867, and is fully equipped, and trains are regularly running over it. The Company has now on hand sufficient iron, ties, etc., to finish the remaining portion to the eastern base of the Rocky Mountains, 212 miles, which is under contract to be done September 1st of this year, and it is expected that the entire road will be in running order from Omaha to its western connection with the Central Pacific, now being rapidly built eastward from Sacramento, Cal., during 1870.

Means of the Company.

Estimating the distance to be built by the Union Pacific to be 1,565 miles, the United States Government issues its Six per cent. Thirty year Bonds to the Company as the road is finished at the average rate of about $28,250 per mile, amounting to $44,208,000.

The Company is also permitted to issue its own First Mortgage Bonds to an equal amount, and at the same time, which BY SPECIAL ACT OF CONGRESS ARE MADE A FIRST MORTGAGE ON THE ENTIRE LINE, the bonds of the United States being subordinate to them.

The Government makes a donation of 12,800 acres of land to the mile, amounting to 20,032,000 acres, estimated to be worth $30,000,000, making the total resources, exclusive of the capital, $118,416,000; but the full value of the lands cannot now be realized.

The authorized Capital Stock of the Company is one hundred million dollars, of which five millions have already been paid in, and of which it is not supposed that more than twenty-five millions at most will be required.

The cost of the road is estimated by competent engineers to be about one hundred million dollars, exclusive of equipment.

Prospects for Business.

The railroad connection between Omaha and the East is now complete, and the earnings of the Union Pacific on the sections already finished, for the month of May, were $261,782. These sectional earnings, as the road progresses, will much more than pay the interest on the Company's bonds, and the through business over the only line of railroad between the Atlantic and Pacific must be immense.

Value and Security of the Bonds.

The Company respectfully submit that the above statement of facts fully demonstrates the security of their Bonds, and as additional proof they would suggest that the Bonds now offered are less than ten million dollars on 517 miles of road, on which over twenty million dollars have already been expended; on 300 miles of this road the cars are now running, and the remaining 187 miles are nearly completed.

At the present rate of premium on gold these bonds pay an annual interest on the present cost of

Nine Per Cent.,

And it is believed that on the completion of the road, like the Government Bonds, they will go above par. The Company intend to sell but a limited amount at the present low rate, and retain the right to advance the price at their option.

The Pittsburgh Gazette

THE COURTS

Court of Quarter Sessions.

FIFTH WEEK.

This Court met Wednesday at ten o'clock, Hon. Thomas Mellon on the bench, Colonel Levi Bird Duff, District Attorney.

VERDICTS RENDERED.

The jury before whom Charles Hersh, Jr., was tried on two indictments for assault and battery on two children of Mrs. Watkins, found a verdict of guilty in one case, and a verdict of not guilty, prosecutrix to pay the costs, in the other. In cross-suits for surety of the peace, between the same parties, the Court ordered the costs to be divided.

CASE CONCLUDED.

Judge Mellon charged the jury in the Muldoon-McGooden case—indictment for assault and battery against McGooden on oath of Muldoon—and a verdict of guilty was rendered. Mr. Miller entered a motion for a new trial.

SELLING ON SUNDAY.

Charles Kersch, of Bloomfield, Liberty township, was convicted on an indictment for selling liquor on Sunday, and sentenced to pay a fine of twenty dollars and to thirty days imprisonment.

BOUNDARY LINE QUARREL.

A jury was next sworn to try three several issues joined between the Commonwealth vs. Henry Kountz and Hannah Kountz, malicious mischief, Commonwealth vs. Hannah Kountz, William Kountz, and Susannah Hoerr, assault and battery, and Commonwealth vs. Rebecca Bishop, assault and battery. This difficulty arose out of a dispute about a boundary line between the lands of Kountz and Bishop, in Ross township. A fence which, as claimed, diverged from the line a few feet for a distance of about seventy-five feet, had been removed. Mr. Kountz, taking counsel, and believing his land encroached upon, cut down the fence from the line to which it had been removed. The fence had been allowed to remain for a period of thirty or forty years, and for this reason, among others, its removal Mr. Kountz concluded not to submit to. The malicious mischief was alleged to consist in his cutting it down, and in what further occurred the assaults and batteries were alleged to have been committed. The case occupied considerable time, much more than its importance justified. Jury out at adjournment.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

Sandy Fitzsimmons was placed on trial for an alleged assault and battery on Mrs. Ellen Cowley. The parties reside under one roof in the Ninth ward, and it appears that on a Saturday night, a couple of weeks since, the prosecutrix had some friends in her room, the evening being made agreeable by the drinking of ale, singing, and patting of feet, and this amusement was continued until the small hours of Sunday morning. The defendant, who occupied a lower room, was annoyed by the noise made, but more particularly by the falling of the plastering on the bed where he slept. He remonstrated with Mrs. Cowley, words passed, and he struck her in the mouth, knocking her down. The case was not concluded at adjournment.

Court adjourned till Friday morning.

Meeting of Allegheny Board of Controllers.

A regular monthly meeting of the Allegheny School Controllers was held on Tuesday evening, July 2d. Present: Messrs. Beckert, Chadwick, Dunlap, Francis, Kollock, Kay, M'Clinton, Pitcairn, Ross, Swift, Strasser, Torrence, Thompson, Towers, White, Young and President Clark.

The minutes of the preceding meeting were read, and on motion to adopt the same, a discussion arose in regard to the appointments on the Committees by the Manchester Local Board. The discussion was ruled out of order, and the minutes adopted as read.

The Secretary submitted a petition from the teachers of the Manchester District, asking for an equal amount of compensation, for the month of June, as allowed the other teachers in the city. Referred to the Committee on Finance in connection with the Committee on Teachers and Salaries.

The Secretary read a communication from Messrs. W. T. Moorhead, E. M. Sill, J. N. Caldwell, C. A. Chamberlain and Will A. Johnston, Principals of the Second Ward Schools, suggesting the propriety of making each Principal, Superintendent of his own school, relieving him from the care of a single room, and in a good measure from hearing recitations, that his whole time and energies may be devoted to the general interests of the school. Referred to the Committee on Teachers and Salaries, to report.

The Secretary submitted the correspondence between Messrs. John Brown, Jr., Secretary of the Second Ward Board, and Hon. S. P. Wickersham, State Superintendency, relative to the removal of Rev. Joseph King, and submitting the question whether his retention as a member of the Board of Controllers, notwithstanding the Local Board had appointed a successor, was legal and proper. The State Superintendent decided that Mr. King lost his seat in the Ward Board by his removal; that he made a mistake in taking his seat as a member of the Board of Controllers, and that the Board made a mistake in allowing him to retain his seat. The opinion was ordered to be filed.

Principal—B. F. Gamber. Assistant—Miss E. E. Bailey. First Grammar—Mattie McCain. Second—Lizzie A. McKee. Third—Ann M. Schreiber. First Intermediate—E. E. Wilson and Anna Pitcairn. Second—M. E. Kelley, Sallie Johnston and S. E. Patton. Primary—M. J. Caruthers, E. E. Boyd, Lide H. Cubbage, Allie Reynolds and E. Richardson. Teacher of German—G. F. Wolf.

A communication was submitted from Mr. S. A. Neale, Principal of the Colored Schools, soliciting a reappointment. The communication was received, and the petitioner unanimously re-elected.

The election of teachers in the Fourth Ward Local Board was submitted, as follows: No. 4—Principal, C. A. Chamberlain; Assistant, Miss Sarah A. Hamilton. First Grammar, Miss Elizabeth Davidson and Miss M. Thompson. Second Grammar, Miss M. Wallace and Miss M. White. First Medium, Miss Rebecca Witherow and Miss Sarah Smith. Second Medium, Miss M. A. Duncan and Miss M. C. Hayes. Primary, Miss Ellen Siebert and Miss Mary J. Phillips.

Number Five—Principal, Mr. W. A. Johnston. Assistant, Miss Anna C. McCall. First Medium, Mary E. Norton. Second, Ella L. Jamison. Third, Mrs. Catherine Johnston. First Primary, Mary E. Hughes. Second, Agnes Parry. Third, Elizabeth Chambers. Writing Teacher, Miss S. A. Johnson.

The nominations were confirmed.

A communication was received from Mr. D. Cornelius, teacher of vocal music in Manchester, Reserve and adjacent districts, asking the appointment of teacher of vocal music in one half of the schools of the consolidated city. Referred to the Committee on Teachers and Salaries, to report.

The appointments on the committees of the Board of Controllers, made by the President of the Fifth ward Local Board, Mr. Ross, again came up for discussion.

Mr. Chadwick charged Mr. Ross with improper motives in making the appointments, and characterized it as an attempt to make "tools" of other members of the Local Board.

Mr. Ross explained at considerable length, pronounced the insinuations as false and ungenerous, and alleged that Mr Chadwick wished an appointment on the Committee on Grade and Text Books, that he might further the interests of certain book publishers.

Other members of the Board became involved in the discussion, which took a wide range, and assumed anything else than a pleasant or profitable phase.

The discussion finally terminated on the adoption of a motion authorizing the President of the Board of Controllers to appoint the members from the Manchester Local Board on the standing committees, which seemed satisfactory to all parties.

The Board then adjourned.

STATE OF KANSAS.

Mineral Resources—Building Stone—Union Pacific Railway Earnings.

[Special Correspondence Pittsburgh Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS, June 25, 1867.

I arrived in this city on Saturday morning from Kansas, and here I intend to remain for a while. In some respects this is a better stand point from which to view the great Trans-Mississippi region than any other. It is its natural metropolis; but I saw enough while far up the Kansas and the Smoky Hill to satisfy me that St. Louis will have a hard and wholesome struggle for the trade of the mighty and matchless empire which is springing up behind her. Here, almost literally, a nation is born in a day, and the region through which I have just been travelling is very nearly as accessible to Chicago as to St. Louis, and to New York as to Pennsylvania.

I propose now to speak of

THE MINERAL RESOURCES OF KANSAS.

Until I visited the State my impression was that, although Kansas was very beautiful and very fertile, its mineral resources did not amount to much. I was not even aware, until I came out last fall, that it has more abundant, cheaper, and better building stone than any other State in the Union can boast; and the best of it is that these stone do not at all mar the soil or break the face of the country. In my letters last fall I spoke briefly of these regular and far extended quarries of magnesian limestone; but as I have given the subject more close attention on this more leisurely excursion, I beg leave to return to the subject.

In the neighborhood of Lawrence, forty miles above the mouth of the Kansas, this stone exists in abundance, but the quality, as a building material, is inferior. The strata are thin and the color is not pretty. At Topeka, twenty miles further up, the quality is greatly better, and many very handsome dwellings are to be seen in and around that city constructed of it. It underlies all the upper surface of the country, and crops out of the faces of the bluffs with such regularity that it might be mistaken at a distance for tolerably well laid artificial walls of range work.

As we ascend the river it becomes better and better. At Manhattan, a pretty and flourishing town at the mouth of the Big Blue river, it is surpassingly beautiful, of a very light, delicate and lively stone color, and is so abundant, and so easily quarried and worked, that it is cheaper as a building material than either brick or frame. It is harder than at Fort Riley and Junction City, so that, although it works easily under the hammer and chisel, they do not attempt to saw it like timber, as they do at the latter places. I, however, prefer the color of the Manhattan stone to any I ever saw. At Manhattan it is something like the color of diluted milk; at Junction City it is more like cream. But I suppose it is a matter of taste.

From some distance below Fort Riley to a still greater distance above Junction City—how many miles I cannot say—an enormous and solid stratum of this rock extends, in some places over six feet thick, and so soft that they cut it with axes in the quarry, and saw it into any forms they please with toothed saws, just as timber is sawed. Yet when exposed to the atmosphere for a while, it becomes almost as hard as marble and quite as indestructible. As to this last and most important fact I might have hesitated to take the words of the people there, who are very enthusiastic on the subject, and who think that they have an inexhaustible mine of wealth in that rock, had I not seen the angles of the stratum as its faces protruded from the face of the bluff, as sharp as ever, although they had stood the beatings of the elements for centuries.

A company, with a capital of $40,000, has just been organized at Junction City to take up this stone, and otherwise work it into any and every form which the market may call for. The President of the Company told me that they proposed to saw it into slabs for flooring, one and a half inches thick, and into tiles for roofing, three quarters thick, and that they would turn it into any form which a lathe could give to wood or metal. I believe this enterprise will be a success. I saw some very large blocks of this stone at Topeka, on the ground where they are just beginning to erect the State Capitol. It will probably be one of the most beautiful structures in the country, but by no means the most expensive. This stone is practically inexhaustible, and will furnish a large item of transportation to the U. P. Railway.

While at Junction City two tall, slender chimney tops were pointed out to me. They were built of thin blocks or slabs, set on edge—four making a round—cut out, as I was told, with a common hand saw. They fitted so nicely that the joints were scarcely perceptible at the distance I stood, and the whole had the appearance of slender marble shafts. Mr. Martin, editor of "The Junction City Daily Union," (an energetic and enterprising Pennsylvanian, a good man, and one whose life will be a success,) had a block of this stone in his office on which he showed me by practical test how a hand saw operated. It cut into it rapidly and smoothly, although the block had become somewhat hardened by exposure to the atmosphere.

Some miles above Junction City—how far exactly I cannot say—the stone of the valley changes from lime to sand, and there is also a perceptible change in the soil, although it continues to be equally rich. At Salina, fifty miles above Junction City, they have abundance of excellent building stone—a fine-grained, compact sandstone. Limestone also exists in abundance on the higher grounds. About twenty miles beyond Salina, where we stopped for an hour or two on our way down, I saw on the opposite side of a small creek, about half a mile south of the road, a bold rocky bluff. I walked across the intervening prairie, which was like a flower garden, as near to the bluff as I could get for the stream. I found it to be a solid mass of rock—I think it was sand—of straight and beautiful cleavage, thirty or forty feet thick. It was building stone of excellent quality. Beyond that is the brown sandstone of which I spoke in a former letter, and which abounds about Fort Harker and Ellsworth. Professor Mudge, of the Kansas State Agricultural College, and State Geologist for 1864, speaking of this beautiful stone, told me that it belonged to the same geological era as the red sandstone of Connecticut, so largely used for architectural purposes in New York, and is like that stone, often found marked with the tracks of large birds of a former period.

Limestone is found in many places far beyond Fort Harker, and is probably abundant in all parts of the State. The lime made of that of which I have spoken more particularly is white and of excellent quality.

Marble, white, black and variegated, exists in many places and in boundless quantity in the Southern parts of the State. The white is said to be pure, of an excellent quality and susceptible of fine polish. I saw no specimens; but I saw at Lawrence a polish specimen of black marble, taken from a quarry near Fort Scott, near the Southeastern corner of the State, which for lustre and fineness of grain I have never seen excelled. It is somewhat harder than any other American marble I have seen except the Potomac variety, which is rather a conglomerate than marble. For mantles, time-pieces &c., this Fort Scott marble would be advisable. There will soon be a connection by rail between Fort Scott and its circumjacent region and the Union Pacific.

But why, it may be asked, have I dwelt so long upon the single subject of the stone of this country that there is no room in this letter for the coal, the salt, the gypsum and the metals? I have done so, because stone is now and must ever be the principal building material in Kansas. The cities of Leavenworth and Lawrence are mainly built of brick; but beyond these where stone becomes more excellent in quality, and the clay less suitable for brick making, but few brick buildings are seen. Even at Topeka the few brick houses to be seen attest that the business of brick making is a failure. At Salina a few brick have been made; but when thoroughly burned they more resemble stone in color than ordinary brick. But as wood is scarce and stone plenty, and good, and easily quarried, the latter must soon be the cheaper material. Frame houses are costly, because much of the lumber must be brought from St. Louis or Chicago. But the great Dispenser of blessings and benefits, if he has withheld some things deemed essential to human comfort and well-being, has supplied with a lavish hand other things even better. And when Kansas shall be fully occupied, no people in this Union will have more beautiful or more comfortable dwellings.

Of the other mineral resources of this State—which, in the language of Professor Mudge's Report, contains 78,418 square miles, is ten times the area of Massachusetts, one-sixth larger than Missouri, and about about one-third larger than England—minerals, the extent and importance of which astonished me, I shall speak more fully in my next letter.

J. C.

P. S.—The following brief document, which was handed to me yesterday, proves, as nothing else can, the magnitude of the trade which has been created by and is following this road which is so rapidly penetrating what was lately a silent and unoccupied region. It fully confirms all I have said of the country; for no country but one surpassingly good could, in its earliest infancy, sustain such a trade:

—The condition of the money market is such as to inspire confidence and hope—confidence in the general strength of the community in a financial point of view, and hope that the year of 1867 may pass without even a touch of the disasters which have been so freely predicted. There is a rare quantity of money in the country now lying idle, or invested in such way that but little time will be required to realize; and it is expected that as soon as the flattering prospects of the crops become a certainty in a fruitful yield, this capital will seek permanent investment, thus opening new fields for for enterprise and labor, and promoting the development of the industrial resources of the country.

—The Assessor appointed to value National banks shares in Allegheny county, including the banks of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, has just made report, by which we find that the total market value of the stock returned to amount to $12,317,060. The total nominal capital of the nineteen banks in the county is but $9,600,000. The market price is thus nearly 25 per cent. above par. On this sum a State tax of three mills is ordered.

—Interest fell due on July 1st upon the twenty years' six per cent. bonds of 1847, 1848, 1851, and 18-5, and upon a portion of the five-twenties. The amount of gold required to pay the three coupons is about eighteen millions. July 1st, the Treasurer will be called upon to pay the interest upon the thirty years' six per cent. Pacific Railroad bonds. The next interest that falls due, also payable here, is the last interest payable upon what are known as the funded seven-thirties. Three hundred millions of these 7.30 bonds, issued the years originally issued under the loan act of June 30, 1864. The greater portion of these bonds, if not all, will be converted into five twenties of July, 1865. The new five twenties, of July 1, 1867, have not yet made their appearance.

—The London Times has the following in reference to the English finances:

"The month of May, in contrast to the same deplorable period of 1866, has witnessed a total advance of nearly 5 per cent. in the English funds—a circumstance rarely paralleled. The market opened amid general excitement, all persons being anxious to buy, and, notwithstanding the improvement of 5s established, the first transactions in consols were at a fresh rise of three quarters per cent. The eagerness to purchase continued throughout the day, and as the holders of securities, English or foreign, with very few exceptions believed it to have any sound foundation, were now no longer disposed to sacrifice their property in vague alarm, each transaction was followed by a fresh upward movement."

This general animation is attributed to the encouraging crop reports, prospects of a general and prolonged peace, and to the announcement of another increase of about half a million sterling in the bullion of the Bank of France, and of a reduction in the rate of discount of that establishment to 4½ per cent. The rapid advance of prices has caused the failure of several adverse operators.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, WEDNESDAY, July 3, 1867.

CRUDE—The market for Crude was firm and somewhat excited to-day, though there was little or nothing done, nor is it likely that there will until matters become more settled. Sale of 100 bbls West Virginia oil (44 gravity) at 7c, bbls to be returned; and 2000 bbls to be delivered in Philadelphia and shipped direct from Oil City, sale 10c, bbls included. Spot oil is held at an advance and the same at future dates, before, but as a general thing, there are but few buyers who have confidence enough in the stability of the market to pay the advance, preferring rather to hold off and wait for future developments. At Oil City, as we learn by private telegrams, the market was greatly excited and prices run up from 30 to 50c per bbl—$2,50 @ $3,00, against $1,90 yesterday.

REFINED—At no time, perhaps, in the past twelve months has there been such an excitement in the market as was manifested this afternoon. Both "bulls" and "bears" were terribly agitated, and a stranger passing along Duquesne way, between St. Clair and Hand streets, would have been led to suppose that some astounding developments had been made or a great disaster had occured in that immediate vicinity. Brokers were button-holing refiners for "refined," by telegraph, while refiners were unwilling to name a price, fearing the market would still further advance. In the afternoon, however, reports from the east of offers to sell on the part of exporters soon allayed the excitement and calmed the troubled sea, and then the buyers came to sell at the figures offered in the forenoon, but no buyers; and then, we have no doubt, there were parties who felt sold themselves, in refusing to accept the figures tendered in the early part of the day. We can report sales of 500 bbl for July, at 30¾@30½c; 100 for August, at 28—on Tuesday evening—100 for August, at 29½; 1000 on spot, at 27, and 500 to be delivered between the 10th of July and 15th of August, at 21, on board cars here—all standard white, and all to be delivered in Philadelphia.

RIVER NEWS.

There is no change to note in the "situation" at the levee. Business is completely suspended and is likely to remain so for some time, and the weather continues oppressively hot. We had enough rain yesterday afternoon to lay the dust, and hardly that—not enough to have any influence on the stage of water.

The Yorktown has laid up at St. Louis, and the Armadillo was expected to arrive their from Pittsburgh on Monday night.

Since the Richmond was defeated by the Ruth, the Louisville Courier has but little to say about the "famous low pressure." Previous to that, the river column of that paper was almost completely monopolized with fulsome puffs of the Richmond, and other boats, equally as meritorious, scarcely received a mention.

The Great Republic arrived at Cairo on Monday from New Orleans, with a moderate trip. Her whole time out from New Orleans was 3 days 14 hours and thirty minutes, including 3 hours and 20 minutes lost by fog, storms and bad weather every night, compelling her to return to the main river, losing all advantage taken by the Rush and Richmond, who had moonlight nights. Her first twenty-four hours run to Gibson's Landing, seventeen miles above Natchez; second day's run twelve miles below Napoleon; third day, a light run, from Hicker's plantation, below Baton Rouge, to Rodney. From Island No 12 to Sersbrass Towhead, above White river, run no chutes from Island 82 to Memphis.

The towboat Raven arrived at Memphis on Tuesday last from the Ohio river with a tow of five barges containing 19,000 barrels of salt.

Mr. M. A. Bryson, who has been traveling through the western and southern cities agitating the improvement of the western rivers, made a speech at Louisville, the other night, from which we extract the following from the Courier:

The facts and figures in regard to the immensity of the river trade and commerce of the Mississippi valley were stated in brief and with much force by Mr. Bryson, clearly demonstrating the fact that more of the commerce of the world is rolled past the mouth of the great Western rivers in a single year than could be carried by the Pacific Railroad in half a hundred years. Congress has just appropriated the equivalent of sixty millions for that railroad scheme, and only a few dollars for the Western rivers. The people of the North and West are expected to induce Congress to appropriate a few millions for our river commerce, including the completion of our canals and removing the snags and bars of the Lower Mississippi.

The same paper also says: The coal towboat Collier has just arrived in port, and is now coaling line. In charge of pilots Runyan and Bennington the Collier towed twenty-one barges from this port to Cincinnati in forty-eight hours, all sale and night, the biggest tow of the season, up stream.

Smithland, Kentucky, is in a fair way of being cut off from the main river by a canal across the island to the right going down, and have to run up on the Kentucky side to reach the landing—a distance of half a mile. Before long the wharfboat has been dropped down some two miles below the town.

The Cincinnati Gazette of Tuesday, says: The Belle arrived from Pittsburgh yesterday, with all she could bring down. She reshipped her New Orleans freight on the Mollie Able, for St. Louis on the New York, and her Nashville freight she still holds, awaiting a packet. She left Pittsburgh temperance on the 1st.

The Silver Cloud and the towboats Simpson Horner and A. J. Baker were at Cairo on Monday.

The Evansville Journal, of Saturday, says: The St. Charles had the passengers of the M. S. Mepham, laid up at Paducah. It was reported that two cases
